X.1 INTRODUCTION

This chapter contains a list of the people who developed the Lisa computer. The names and titles that appear in this chapter are based on Apple documents and the generous feedback from various people. At various times, different people held different positions so the following titles for the listed people were correct at only one point in time. This chapter does not attempt to list each person's different titles.

The Lisa development effort began in October 1978 and ended in November 1983. On 18 Oct 1978 Steve Jobs and Trip Hawkins produced the one page memo "LISA Proposal #1" which began Apple's Lisa efforts. In November 1983 the Lisa division, Personal Office Systems (POS), was merged into the Macintosh division and this new entity was named the Apple 32 SuperMicro division.

From a hardware perspective there appears to have been four different Lisa computers:

| LISA | ARCHITECTURE | DATE/ARCHITECT | RELEASED? |
|-------------|---|-----------------------------|-----------|
| Α | Custom bit-sliced CPU, executed Pascal p-code | 1979/Steve Wozniak | No |
| В | 68000 CPU, text-based | 1979-80/Ken Rothmuller No | |
| С | 68000 CPU, GUI-based (Lisa 1 and 2 models) | 1980-82/Paul Baker | Yes |
| D | 68020 CPU, GUI-based, color output (Lisa 3) | 1983/Ken Okin, Dave Stewart | No |

I'm not 100% certain about KO and DS working on D, either 1 or both worked on it. The 68020 CPU may also have not been used since I've heard from Apple engineers that no 68020 CPU was ever in a Lisa. ????

The reason for this list is the same as stated by Dan Allen, a Macintosh software engineer, who said in his wonderful book On Macintosh Programming: Advanced Techniques about the inclusion of historical information for the Macintosh's development (Addison-Wesley Publishing Company,1st edition, 1990, Preface):

I feel it is important to record the names of these people here, as no other history has been written documenting their achievements.

In addition to Dan's reasons I think this list is important because it shows the human dimension behind the Lisa development effort. Without these people there would have been no Lisa.

These names originated in various books, magazines, or personal letters. The names of most of the top POS executives came from Apple's wonderful Lisa Product Introduction Plan (14 January 1983).

X.2 SOFTWARE PEOPLE

Lisa Office System

LisaDraw Mark Cutter

LisaWrite Tom Malloy, Brad Silverberg, John MacMillan, Rudi Sherry, Rick Tiberi

(some for only part of the development period)

LisaProject Debra Willrett (on contract)

LisaCalc Janis Baron, Rod Perkins, Richard Moore

LisaTerminal Dan Venolia (version 1.0), Priscilla Worland (version 7/7)

LisaGraph Steve Young

LisaList Ed Birss, Mark Deppe, Chris Franklin, Marian Catelain Cauwet,

Larry Rosenstein (provided international support in version 2)

LisaGuide Geoff Brown (design by Phyllis Cole)

Desktop Manager Dan Smith (aka Dan Keller), Frank Ludolph, Bill Atkinson

Ken Krugler (or Kruegler) took over the DM for Lisa 7/7

Calculator Rod Perkins Clock Frank Ludolph

Preferences ???

User Interface

Many parents, some claiming more or less credit than due, varying by application and time period. Primary responsibility was:

Version 1 Larry Tesler and Bill Atkinson with Dave O'Connor in Product Marketing

Version 3 (7/7) Mei Hu (sp?)

Other people that I've read as having a helping hand in the user interface design were:

Bruce Daniels, Dan Smith, ???

Desktop Libraries

Most were written as needed by the application programmers.

QuickDraw Bill Atkinson (development preceded all Lisa tools except for LisaWrite)

LisaWrite team wrote the first Event Manager, Event Manager

Bill Atkinson wrote the second.

Larry Tesler integrated the second with LisaWrite one Christmas vacation because the LisaWrite team wouldn't,

MacMillan of the LisaWrite team reintegrated it to their liking. Larry Tesler (same Christmas vacation as Event Manager)

Alert Manager Menu Manager Bill Atkinson Window Manager Bill Atkinson

Rod Perkins (first DM), Larry Tesler (wrote the final DM, Dialog Manager LisaWrite group may have written the final DM)

Print Manager Original printing work was done by Owen Densmore, Steve Capps, and

> Jeff Parrish. Further efforts were by Bayles Holt, Dave Casseres, and Eric Zarakov. Annette Wagner and one or two contractors designed screen typefaces.

Clipboard/Scrap Manager

Font Manager

Jeff Parrish Marian Catelain

Single Line Text Editor

SANE David Hough, Clayton Lewis, Jim Thomas, Jerome Coonen

(Coonen was involved with SANE testing, worked mostly on Macintosh

Bruce Daniels, Steve Young (may have implemented SM streams)

SANE)

Office System Graphic Images (e.g., icons, windows)

Annette Wagner

Office System User Testers

Larry Tesler, Greg Stikeleather, Ellen Nold, Mary Diehle

Monitor Development Environment (pre-Workshop)

Mouse editor Bruce Daniels
Non-window shell Barry Haynes
Monitor (interim OS) Rich Page

Pascal compiler Silicon Valley Software/SVS (outside contractor)

Workshop Development Environment

Manager Ron Johnston

Linker Yu-Ying Chow, later maybe Ken Friedenbach

Numerics, Standard Unit Fred Forsman Shell Barry Haynes

Editors Barry Haynes, Marianne Hsiung

Development Languages

Pascal Compiler Barry Haynes, Al Hoffman, Ira Rubin, Chris Franklin, Rich Page

(originally created by an outside company, Silicon Valley Software [SVS])

Clascal Compiler; design Larry Tesler, Chris Franklin, Larry Rosenstein Clascal Compiler; extensions Chris Franklin, later Ira Rubin and Al Hoffman

68000 Assembler ??? (most likely in-house and based on UCSD's TLA assembler) BASIC Interpreter Marianne Hsiung (maintained language, originally created by outside contractor)

C Compiler Rick Meyers (originally created by an outside company, Green Hills)

COBOL CIS (KIS?) COBOL (outside contractor)

Toolkit

Larry Tesler (design and debugger implementation), Larry Rosenstein, Scott Wallace, Pete Young (worked on early prototypes), Barry Haynes (debugger implementation)

Lisa-to-Macintosh tool and Macintosh conversion applications

Lisa-to-Macintosh Lisa tool Larry Rosenstein, Steve Young

LisaWrite to MacWrite Larry Rosenstein

LisaWrite to MicroSoft Word Microsoft (Ruth Adlhoch, John Hopper, Mike Koss, Frank Liang, David Luebert, David Palmer, Charles Simonyi, Ken Shapiro)

LisaCalc to Jazz D-K Research LisaCalc to SYLK Microsoft ?

Debra Willrett? LisaProject to MacProject

Operating System

OS Services, Drivers Wendell Henry team leader. MMU code

Art Benjamin file system, first version Chris McFall file system, second version Yu-Ying Chow (lady) process manager

Chris Moeller process manager

Dave Offen device drivers, twiggy/profile drivers

Jay Walton startup code

??? Paul Williams

LisaBug

Rich Page Marianne Hsiung Environments Window

Boot ROM and Hardware-related Software (a.k.a. Diagnostics and Firmware group)

Rich Castro Boot ROM: Technical leader

Boot ROM: Video PROM serial number reading Ken Schmal Ron Hochsprung Boot ROM: Video PROM serial number reading

Boot ROM: Mouse & cursor I/O, keyboard, clock, calendar Rick Meyers

Boot ROM: Mini-graphics package Mike Urquhart

Others ... Larry Kenyon Susanna Lam Gary Phillips

Paul van Keuren Frank Jones Allen Johnson

Smalltalk

Rick Meyers Started Apple's Smalltalk-80 project in October 1980

David Casseres Technical writer for Rick Meyers

Dan Ingalls, Barry Haynes, Yu-Ying Chow, Mark Lentczner

(worked on ST-80 that was officially released March 1985 for the Macintosh XL)

Misc. Software

MacWorks Jeff Parrish, Rich Castro, Steve Capps may have collaborated with Parrish

on the first version

Lisa Unix Ron Johnston

LisaPaint Bill Atkinson's testbed for QuickDraw, influenced MacPaint

LisaBalls Standard test bed for various system components, e.g., multitasking in the OS

LisaTest Rich Castro

Product Support Engineers

Elizabeth Shannon Patti Blair

X.3 HARDWARE PEOPLE

Paul Baker Managed Hardware Engineering up to 1982, MMU Ken Okin Managed Hardware Engineering in 1982-83

Rich Page Turned h/w from bit-sliced p-machine to 68000, overall h/w design

Mark Baumwell ????

John Vennard Twiggy floppy drive, head of Apple's Peripherals Division

Richard Jordan

William Bull

Robert L. Ciardella

Robert Taggart

Frederick "Rod" Holt

John Moon

Douglas C. Dayton Lisa case
Gary L. Marten MMU

Glenn Edens Brought 1st mouse into Apple at Trip Hawkins' request in early 1980

Dean Hovey Designed Apple's 1st mouse at Trip Hawkins' request, member of the

Hovey-Kelley design company

The Lisa Hardware group as of August 1981 consisted of:

Paul Baker (supervisor) Gary Baker Elmer Baum Ron Christner Al Estrella Jon Fitch Nelson Klinek Gary Marten Ravi Shah

Mari Storer Rich Wicker John Turnbach (lead tech)

Teresa Mahler Vic Bull (supervisor) Bruce Lee
Dave Stewart Bob Paratore (tech lead) Mike Dhuey
Ron Hochsprung Greg Justice Bob Lashley

By late 1982, Ken Okin was managing Hardware Engineering and the group composition was quite different.

Product Design Group (August 1981)

Bill Dresselhaus (manager) Steve Balog Barbara Cribbs Clive Twyman

X.4 TECHNICAL ORG CHART OF OCTOBER 1982

Here's the Lisa technical org chart from October 1982. Each section lists the section name with the manager of the section immediately following. Then follows the names of the people in the section. Positions are indicated by the following chart:

M: Acting manager PS: Project supervisor T: Technical leader

A: E.P. Analyst (E.P. = ???)

C: Consultant

X.5 TECHNICAL MANAGEMENT PEOPLE

Wayne Rosing Manager of Hardware development, then overall director of Lisa engineering

Bruce Daniels Manager of all software development during 1980, worked on Macintosh for a bit, then served as Lisa system architect, led the early user interface investigation meetings

Larry Tesler Manager of Application Software development, including user interface, and

Desktop Libraries, worked on the user interface design and implementation, worked on Clascal and the Toolkit, left Xerox for Apple in July 1980,

The Legacy of the Lisa: An Outsider's View [Chapter XXX] REVISION 1 (26Aug97) 8

left Apple in August 1997

Eric Harslem Last manager of Lisa software group

Pete Cressman Manager of Software Quality Assurance (aka New Product Review)

Randy Battat Product manager
Tim McNally Product manager

Bruce Blumberg Third-Pary Products and Development Tools Manager Burt Cummings Tech Support Manager, Third-Party Program Manager

Dan Cochran Third-Party Product Manager
Leslie Myers Third-Party Program Coordinator
Bill Libby Language product manager

Tom Whitney VP of Engineering when Apple began the Lisa project, asked Trip Hawkins

to prepare the Lisa MRD

Ken Rothmuller First project leader, replaced by John Couch, now works (again) for HP, wrote "Review of LISA Objectives" (13 Feb 1979)

X.6 NON-TECHNICAL MANAGEMENT PEOPLE

The following list is valid for early 1983 when the Lisa was introduced. Between 1980 and 1983 the composition of this group was somewhat different.

John D. Couch VP & General Manager of POS, started at Apple as VP Apple s/w where he created a plan for a 16-bit system to succeed Apple 2, now with

FISK Communications in San Diego, CA

Deme Clainos Director of Marketing
Dave Craft Director of Manufacturing
Ed Unkart Financial Controller
Joy McCully Office Market Manager
Ellen Nold Marketing Support Manager
Rick Tompane Hardware Product Marketing
Doug Pollack Hardware Product Marketing

Trip Hawkins Co-wrote initial Lisa spec with Steve Jobs, co-wrote the Lisa

Marketing Requirements Document (MRD) (80%), left Apple in 1982 Co-wrote the MRD with Trip Hawkins (15%), left Apple in July 1980 Co-wrote the MRD with Trip Hawkins (5%), left Apple in late 1980

Pat Marriott She was the Product Marketing Manager for system software (to Fall 82)

Barry Smith Software Product Marketing (82+)
Jay Weil (sp?) Font and Printing Product Manager

Dave Evans Product Marketing Manager for Peripherals

Steve Jobs Critiqued everything done by everyone, but wouldn't claim authorship of anything, wrote initial Lisa spec with Hawkins ("LISA Proposal #1", 18 Oct 1978)

X.7 WRITERS

Glenn Edens Barry Margerum

Stephen Chernicoff Editor-in-Chief of Publications (1980-83)
Nellie Connors Manager of all Lisa documentation

Developer manuals group:

Larry Roth Monitor User's Guide (ca. 1981)

Bill Schottstaedt Lisa OS Reference Manual (until April 1982)

Bill Schottstaedt Pascal Development System Manual (February 1982)

Bill Schottstaedt Lisa Hardware Reference Manual (July 1981)

D. Berry Lisa Hardware Reference Manual (September 1982)

Gail Pilkington Lisa Hardware Reference Manual (June 1983)

Amy Davidson, David Offen Lisa Device Driver's Manual (David Offen was part of OS team)

Susan Keohan An Introduction to Clascal

Karen Huth Lisa 1 User's Guide (graphics)

Lynnea Johnson Using the Macintosh XL Migration Kit (1985)

Others ... Andy Averill Judy Bligh David Casseres

X.8 EXECUTIVE ASSISTANTS

Here's a list of several people who assisted the top managers. Most of these names are from the Apple software org chart of early to mid 1980 and the Apple Lisa division org chart of October 1982.

Sheri Martinez Ken Okin Development hardware Karen Pereira Marian Catelain Application software

Eileen Crawford Nellie Connors Publications

Peggie Stanford Larry Tesler Application software

X.9 MANUFACTURING PEOPLE

Here's a list of the people who physically manufactured the Lisa. Most of these names are from Apple's factory in Carrollton, Texas (just north of Dallas). The Texas team in May 1984 wrote their names on the inside of the last Lisa's top. (I need to get these names from Darryl Burrows of Dallas who owns this lid and bought most of the Lisa materials from the Carrollton factory)

X.10 UNRELEASED FUTURE HARDWARE AND SOFTWARE

Lisa 3 (When Apple started work on the successor to the Lisa 2, there were many hardware engineers)

Dave Stewart (lead) ? others ???

AppleNet LAN protocols (1 megabit/sec., similar to LocalTalk LAP)

Jim Nichols Ron Hochsprung

Mail system using Xerox XNS protocols (it had drag & drop in/out boxes like PowerTalk today)

Jim Nichols Phil Spira Steve Butterfield Dick Tabor

X.11 WHO CAME FROM XEROX?

Here is a list of the people who left Xerox to work for Apple on the Lisa and their area of expertise. Various articles have indicated that around 15 Xerox people worked on the Lisa.

| Person | Xerox Division | Expertise |
|-----------------|------------------|---|
| Bob Belleville | ??? | ??? |
| Steve Capps | Xerox Rochester | ??? |
| Owen Densmore | Xerox Rochester | Fonts and printing |

An Apple software org chart from early to mid 1980 lists the following people as involved in Lisa software development (I've dated this chart to this time frame since the person who gave me this chart said it was for 1980 and given the lack of Larry Tesler's name I knew it had to originate before Tesler's arrival which occurred in July 1980):

John Couch VP Software

Bruce Daniels Software manager (his executive assistant was Sandra Kane)

Bill Atkinson Art Benjamin Marian Catelain Chris Franklin Ron Hochsprung Thomas Malloy Richard Page Rod Perkins Lew Randall Phil Spira Jim Stein Richard Tiberi

Kurt Shones (summer employee)

X.14 THE FACES BEHIND THE LISA

Here are scanned images of the faces of several of the people behind the Lisa. These were produced using the Thunderscan digitizer. Please excuse the low resolution, I wanted to keep the size in bytes of each image small.

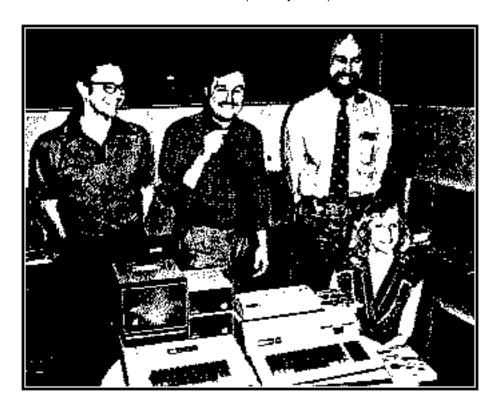

Steve Jobs - note the Lisa behind him (ca. 1984)
